ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A wet wipe dispenser is provided that includes a support having an open area adapted to be juxtaposed with the cover container of wet wipes in an inverted portion of а orientation, and a base portion supporting the support above a which the base portion is placed. embodiment the wet wipes dispenser includes a lower support and an upper support connected by means of a hinge. package is inserted between the upper and lower supports in juxtaposition with a slot within the lower support. The package has an inverted orientation within the slot such that wipes are downwardly dispensed, which allows for removal, and preferably also heating of the wipes, without a high rate of The downward force moisture loss occurring from the package. of the upper support can compress the package as wipes are sequentially dispensed.

453704_1.DOC